In Elgin, New Mexico, howls could be heard in the night, shadowy figures of wolves seen in the moonlight. Was the myth true? Was a werewolf stalking and killing human prey?

Laine Randall was in shock over the death of her friend - and awed that the police believed the attacker was a werewolf. All the evidence was there: The sickening animal scent, the hair... and the tooth marks.

In the light of day, the fiendish killer walked among the living. But under the cloak of darkness, Laine waited for the mystical beast... and found Greg Williams.

Who was this man/creature who hid in shadows? And why were his eyes holding Laine prisoner until she had no will of her own?
